Rumors spread that strikers want to return to work

In the wake of continuing hiring of new workers by Boise Cascade, rumors increased this week that striking paperworkers were prepared to accept the contract already unilaterally implemented by the company in mid-July.

Workers were also saying, however, they remained displeased with the fact that Boise refuses to sweeten its final offer. They said there was the possibility of a work slowdown inside the mill if they do accept the contract as offered.

The situation for the strikers got gloomier during the week as union lawyers withdrew charges against Boise made to the National Labor Relations Board in Boston. The board was supposed to rule late last week on the union's charge that Boise was illegally hiring replacement workers even though negotiations on a new contract had never reached impasse. (Boise claims that the talks had, in fact, reached impasse.)

Had the NLRB supported the union's charge, the strikers would still have jobs at the mill, despite the new hiring. With the charge now dropped (although union lawyers say they will re-file the charge with better evidence), Boise can replace the strikers without fear of being ordered to take them back later.

Town meeting will decide on comprehensive plan

Following last Wednesday night's second public hearing on the draft update of Bethel's Comprehensive Plan, the next step in the process is for a special town meeting to decide whether or not to adopt the updated plan.

Planning Board Chairman John Gray said he believes the selectmen will soon set a date for such a meeting—possibly putting the plan question on the same warrant as a citizen petition for added police protection.

The turnout at last Wednesday's second public hearing, held at the West Bethel Union Church, was larger than at the first hearing a month ago. About 20 people were in attendance. But there were relatively few comments on the plan itself.

Superintendent of Schools Dewaine Craig expressed concern that the high school dropout rate—25 to 30 percent—presented in the draft plan is incorrectly deduced. He explained that the numbers used in the draft plan were obtained by subtracting graduates from freshmen in each recent year's classes. The numbers do not take into consideration the fact of students transferring to other school districts, or students transferring from other school districts. He told the planners he will provide them with more accurate statistics.

Most of the people who attended the hearing did not come to make comments on the specifics of the draft. Rather, they seemed to have come to talk about (and listen to) the issue of growth. "Does the Planning Board have any ideas about instituting zoning?" asked West Bethel resident David Luxton. He added: "I don't blame people from Massachusetts coming here when they see what we have. But the other day I couldn't find a parking space on Main Street."

Chairman Gray pointed out, "We do make a recommendation (in the draft plan) that there should be some land use planning. We don't say what sort of planning that should be."

Mr. Gray said the Planning Board will (if the Comprehensive Plan is adopted) have a specific recommendation for next June's annual town meeting. Whether it would be a site plan ordinance or a zoning ordinance is still to be decided.

SAD #44 enrollments decline for second year

Total enrollment in SAD #44 schools declined again this school year. The total number of students enrolled after the first week of classes was 1,178. This compares to 1,196 last fall and 1,200 two years ago. However, the number of students in school this fall is 20 more than were in school when the spring term ended in June.

Broken down by school, the fall enrollments are as follows:

- Andover Elementary School: 81, compared with 87 last fall;
- Ethel Bissbee and Crescent Park schools: 356, compared with 373 last fall;
- Woodstock Elementary School: 142, compared with 130 last fall;
- Telstar Middle School: 213, compared with 234 last fall;
- Telstar Regional High School: 386, compared with 372 last fall.

By grades, the enrollments break down as follows: kindergarten: 46; grade 1, 95; grade 2, 100; grade 3, 87; grade 4, 84; grade 5, 78; grade 6, 83; grades 7 and 8, 163; grade 9, 102; grade 10, 88; grade 11, 122; grade 12, 74.

Newry lots increase in value by fivefold in less than a decade

Newry selectmen, working on the revaluation of houselots, discovered this week that one-acre lots in Sunday River Village, which sold for $5,000 when the area was laid out seven or eight years ago, are now selling for between $25,000 and $35,000. Selectman Roger Hanscom noted, with some understatement: "By the time you build a house on it you've got a lot of money invested."

The selectmen are paying special attention to revaluing all lots in the developments.

The selectmen noted that 55 percent of the town's taxes ($246,000) have been received. The deadline for paying town taxes is Sept. 30. From Oct. 1, interest charges of 1 percent per month, or portion thereof, will be added to all late tax bills.

The new sign for the town office has been completed by Joe Westleigh and will be placed on the building as soon as the new paint job is finished.

special ed aide, makes sure they all get across safely.

Citizen to publish winter tourism tabloid

As in recent years, The Bethel Citizen will again this year publish its winter tourism tabloid.

The full-color tourism supplement will be off the press the second week of November—in time for the Boston Ski Show.

The Citizen will print and distribute 35,000 of the tabloid-size supplements. Distribution will be to skiing families throughout New England, through direct mailing and through ski shops and YMCA's. The tabloid will also be included as a supplement to a regular issue of The Citizen.

The deadline for advertising in the tabloid is Oct. 3. Those wishing to reach the winter tourism market are advised to contact The Citizen office.

Savings Bank closing branch in West Paris

The Bethel Savings Bank intends to close its West Paris branch and has filed an application with the Federal Home Loan Bank Board to do so. The bank has asked the bank board for permission to move the branch to South Paris.

Savings Bank President Jim Delamater said the move would hopefully make it easier for West Paris residents to do their banking, since most of them seem to like to bank in the Norway/South Paris area.

Vice President Mary Ann Brown added that the move to South Paris would allow more complete loan service. Currently, a loan officer is at the West Paris branch only one day a week.

The Bethel Savings Bank is the third bank to service West Paris, and the third to pull out. The Rumford Falls Trust Company was the first. It gave way to a Maine National Bank branch, which closed and left room for the Bethel Savings Bank branch, which opened there in 1978.

The move is planned for around April, if approval is granted by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. The building that houses the bank will be put up for sale.

Vice President Brown, who is a resident of West Paris, said, "We certainly think of the West Paris people as our customers and hope they will stay with us."

Police warrant article would add 3/8-mill to tax

Bethel selectmen had a workshop Monday night on the citizens' petition for extra police protection and came to the conclusion that the specified extra protection would cause an increase of 3/8-mill on the tax rate.

The amount deemed necessary by the petitioners to double the town's present police protection is stated in the petition as $22,000.

Town Manager Rodney Lynch pointed out to the selectmen that $22,000 will not cover a 100 percent increase in police protection. When all the costs of such extra protection are added together, the actual cost would be more like $28,500, Mr. Lynch said. (The police budget already passed by town meeting is $31,091.)

Since the amount stated in the petitioners' warrant article cannot, by law, be amended upward, the selectmen suggested adding a second article that would ask voters if they were in favor of raising an additional $22,000 for police protection and letting town officials decide exactly how to allocate the additional spending.

Chairman Arian Jodrey said, "We owe it to the petitioners to try and straighten it (the specifics of the proposed article) out. It doesn't mean we have to support it."

Mr. Lynch presented figures showing that an additional $22,000 in the police budget would increase police protection (in terms of hours of patrol) by 88 percent. He indicated, however, that he didn't see any urgency in increasing the police budget. "There are so many other needs in the town," he said.

Auxiliary Police Officer Norm Clanton, speaking as a private citizen, said the amount of increase was not all that important. "Even if the voters decide to up the police budget by (just) a few thousand, there's still room to spend that productively."

MSAD #44 Directors' meeting

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the SAD #44 Board of Directors was held in the library at Crescent Park School's portable classroom building on Monday evening of this week.

The directors approved the internal transfer of the following teaching personnel: Beverly Melville, middle school to high school, English teacher; and Karen Bean, grade 6 to grade 7 at the middle school. Sandra Standeren was approved as a food service worker.

The resignations of Burton Hathaway and Doris Mills as schoolbus drivers were accepted. Board action on bus driver appointments was tabled until the Sept. 22 meeting of the directors.

The following individuals (or organizations) were approved to provide instruction in the SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program: Rodney Abbott, Lloyd Williams (NOVA), Merle Ring, Greg Kraft, Jim Owen, Julie Daye, Donna Richard, Linda Howe, Juanita Smith, Berlin N.H. Vo-Tech.

The following were approved as substitute teachers: Katherine L. Bennett, Kelly J. Bickford, Patricia J. Drapeau, continued on Page Three

Planning for the future

Planning boards in small towns often function in a sort-of twilight zone: residents know they exist but don't really care to know what they do.

That's changing rapidly as local residents view with a growing sense of alarm the increase in construction of condos and subdivisions. A public hearing on Bethel's draft Comprehensive Plan was held before two dozen people last week—nearly double the number who attended the first public hearing just two months earlier. A Planning Board meeting on a subdivision plan two weeks ago brought a host of listeners to the town office—so many, in fact, that the meeting had to be moved from the selectmen's room to the new meeting room.

In Newry, the work of the drafters of a proposed Comprehensive Plan for that town is being closely watched by residents.

This is all to the good. What should be noted, however, is that planning boards cannot provide magic solutions to a town's growth problems. The boards can provide alternatives: it is up to the voters of the town to choose among those alternatives.

Those Bethel residents who have been paying attention to the Comprehensive Plan discussions seem unanimous in their desire for a draft ordinance to consider at next spring's town meeting—an ordinance that will control growth. The once-detested word "zoning" is once again being uttered.

There are many alternatives between zoning and no-zoning, however. The mildest form of control on development would be a minimum lot size ordinance. Then there is the possibility of setback ordinances, site plan ordinances, and, of course, zoning. The Planning Board is expected to consider the range of controls available and come up with what they consider the most useful alternative for Bethel.

Again, it is best to be aware that even with controls, development can be a problem.

Consider the case of New Gloucester, which, last Saturday, imposed a six-month moratorium on most subdivision applications. This was an extension of an earlier six-month moratorium.

New Gloucester has an active Planning Board and already has plenty of controls in place. The town has a zoning ordinance with specifications of a minimum two-acre lot size. The town also has a stringent subdivision ordinance that requires two acres per family, even in multifamily dwellings.

Nevertheless, the town's population grew 37 percent between 1970 and 1980, and another 32 percent—to 3,650, since 1980. New Gloucester's Planning Board Chairman Jim Fitch told The Citizen: "The people that are concerned see the possibility of a change in the character of the town if there's unchecked growth." His fellow townspeople are also concerned over pollution of local water bodies from increased population, Mr. Fitch said.

What brought on the moratorium, he said, was the knowledge that the local school district had no additional capacity and continued population growth would mean a large increase in school spending. "We're looking at expensive expansion (of the school system)," Mr. Fitch explained.

During the coming six-month moratorium on most subdivisions, the New Gloucester Planning Board hopes to commission a groundwater study, revise the zoning map, and consider the effect of additional population on town services.

Bethel area towns are not faced with the urgency to develop solutions that such towns as New Gloucester face. Nevertheless, local residents are wise to want to get some controls in place before developments cause a real panic instead of merely concern. bfw

As I see it . . .

The Enemy Within

Much has been made, and rightly so, of the government's successful efforts in recent years to stop individuals and corporations from polluting the environment. To a large extent, we've stopped looking the other way; stopped taking the polluters to lunch and started taking them to court.

What is unnerving to realize, however, is how much danger lurks in the natural world, a world which we have sentimentalized to near-mythic proportions but which has an immense potential for damage and malevolence.

The poisonous gas which erupted from a lake bottom in Cameroon, claiming 1,500 lives, is as "natural" as spring water or organic vegetables, demonstrating that there is nothing inherently virtuous in nature. Another example of the dark side of the natural world is radon gas.

Radon is a tasteless, odorless and colorless gas which, experts, is radioactive and can cause lung cancer. It occurs naturally from the natural decay of soil and rocks containing uranium, such as granite.

In outdoor air, radon is diluted to such low concentrations that it is usually nothing to worry about. But when radon seeps into homes, it can become an elusive killer.

Radon gets into a home with surprising ease, moving through very small spaces in the soil and rock on which a home is built. Radon can seep into a home through dirt floors, cracks in concrete floors and walls, floor drains, joints, and sump pumps. Radon can also enter water from private wells.

Is the threat real? Experts have told the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) that long-term exposure to radon is causing 5,000-20,000 of the nation's 120,000 lung cancer deaths per year.

The threat is particularly real in Maine, which the EPA has said is a high-risk area for radon because so many Maine communities are built atop granite formations and so many Maine wells are drilled through granite.

Congress has directed the EPA to focus more energy and money on ways to combat radon pollution. But a lot depends on individual homeowners taking the initiative to determine whether or not they are at risk. Since you cannot see or smell radon, special equipment is needed to detect it. There are several radon detectors which are commercially available to test the air and water in your home to determine if radon is a problem.

The EPA has published two good pamphlets for homeowners on radon, both of which are available by writing: Sen. Bill Cohen, "Radon Booklets," U.S. Senate, Washington, D.C. 20510.

Hiroshima, Bhopal, Chernobyl — the list of man-made disasters of our age will always read as a bone-chilling testimony to the dangers of technology. But the example of radon teaches us that the impersonal ruthlessness of the natural order is dangerous and requires our attention.

— Bill Cohen, U.S. Senator

Letters to the Editor

To the Publisher:

Let's see this make the front page! I can't believe that a man of your responsibility in this community would write an article in such an irresponsible manner as the one you did [last] week on Boise hiring help away from local employers.

In the first place, let's set the record straight: the person who left my employment was not an assistant cook; neither was his replacement (who also went to Boise and never got on my payroll—not working for two weeks like you stated); I can't compete with Boise wages, and don't appreciate my name splashed over your front page, making my employer and I sound cheap. (No other employer was mentioned by personal name.)

It would be nice if you would ask people. . . if you could use their name and conversation before you print it. I believe it would be in your best interest to state the facts as they really are, not as you want them to be to sensationalize the story; or better yet, when you get on a tough subject, find something else to write about. A cartoon would be nice! People feel threatened enough over this whole situation without this kind of dialogue.

By the way, the wife of the person who left has been harassed over that article, so you didn't fool anyone. Also, one of my employees who is an assistant has been asked if he left and went to Boise.

I don't believe that the circulation of The Bethel Citizen (or is it now The Enquirer?) has increased that much since your takeover, so let's stop and think before we write.

Don Allen

The publisher replies: In our coverage of the Boise strike, we have taken precautions to disguise and otherwise refrain from identifying non-public figures among workers or strikers who have chosen to discuss with us their feelings about the labor conflict. In some instances, workers or strikers have said it is alright to use their names, and we have done so. We have also used the names of public figures—government, company or union officials—and names of ordinary people not directly involved in the situation. Such was the case in mentioning Mr. Allen in last week's story. We apologize if he was in any way offended by including him in the story.

Waterfowl hunt dates begin Monday, Oct. 6

Maine waterfowl hunters will have seasons this fall similar to last year's, but there will be a reduction in the daily limit on ducks, according to Fish and Wildlife Commissioner Glenn H. Manuel.

The 1986 duck hunting season is set to open statewide on Monday, Oct. 6, at one-half-hour before sunrise. In northern and interior sections of the state the straight, 40-day duck season will end at sunset on Nov. 14. In coastal and southern portions of the state the first part of the split season ends Oct. 18; the second season will run from Nov. 17 through Dec. 13.

The regulations were established within the options presented by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, which has management authority over migratory birds.

The basic limit on ducks this year was reduced to four daily, with restrictions on the number of black ducks, mallards, wood ducks, and other species that may be included.

Throughout the entire season, the daily limit may include no more than two wood ducks, three mallards (only one of which may be a hen), two pintails and two redheads. There is no open season on canvasback ducks this year.

In addition to the four-duck daily limit, between Oct. 6 and 14 hunters may take two blue-winged teal or two green-winged teal or one of each species.

The Canada goose season will run from Oct. 6 through Dec. 13, with a daily limit of three. Snow geese may be taken between Oct. 6 and Jan. 3, with a bag limit of four. Two brant may be taken daily between Oct. 6 and Nov. 4.

Flyers with full details of Maine's 1986 migratory bird hunting regulations will be available before the end of the month from license agents, game wardens and Fish and Wildlife Department regional offices.

Duck and goose hunters age 16 and older must have federal and state duck stamps in addition to regular hunting licenses.

buses stop to pick up children," said Col. Allan H. Weeks, chief of the Maine State Police.

Maine law states: on undivided highways and roads all vehicles must stop until children are clear of the roadway and the bus is moving. Specifically, a motorist coming upon a school bus that has stopped to receive or discharge students shall stop the vehicle before reaching the school bus and shall not proceed until the bus resumes motion or until signaled by the bus driver to proceed.

Concerning divided highways, Maine law states: all vehicles in lanes traveling with the school bus must stop. Vehicles traveling in the opposite direction, but separated by curbing or other similar physical barrier or an unpaved area, need not stop.

A motorist found guilty of not coming to a complete stop as directed by law will wind up with a criminal record for a misdemeanor, and can be fined up to $500 and may be jailed for up to 90 days.

Kangas repeats as point leader at Oxford Plains

With still one more day of racing left in the Late Model Sportsman division, West Paris' Leland Kangas has built an insurmountable lead and is destined to win his second championship. He first won the Late Model Sportsman division crown last summer.

The 35-year-old Kangas first began racing in 1972. In 1973 he captured the Charger division crown and moved up to the Sportsman division.

As he contends with 25 to 30 other race cars each week, his '84 Buick Regal has become the odds-on favorite.

During the week Mr. Kangas is an orchardist, at B&E Orchards, in West Summer. But on weekends, the father of two takes his chances on the 1/4-mile oval at Oxford Plains Speedway. Reaching speeds above 80 mph on the small track, Mr. Kangas says modestly, "You've got to have pretty good reflexes."

Asked what advice he would give to a would-be race car driver, Mr. Kangas says: "It takes a big sponsor. You've got $10,000 in just the engine." (The engine in his '84 Regal is a customized Chevy V-8.)

Mr. Kangas estimates that his race car costs $50,000 to keep it going during the season. And he's happy that someone else is footing those bills. The owner of the car is Danny Gould, of Dryden.

Other advice he offers potential racers: it takes a lot of experience and top physical conditioning.

Once a season, the top drivers—such as Kangas—get the chance to race against the big names in racing at the NASCAR-sanctioned Oxford 250. "It's like the superbowl to us fellows here," he says.

However, he enjoys the racing even without the big names. And apparently so does his family, since they're in the stands every weekend.

TELSTAR HIGH/MIDDLE SCHOOL TO SEEK ACCREDITATION

Telstar's faculty members met on Tuesday, Sept. 2, to listen to tips on preparing for the school's self study offered by a consultant from the New England Association of Schools and Colleges. Robert J. O'Donnell, director of evaluation for the association's Commission on Public Schools, provided the staff with an overall picture of the commission's evaluation procedures and standards of membership during the hour-long session.

Mr. O'Donnell noted that the New England Association is a voluntary accrediting agency of over 1,140 public and independent schools, colleges and universities, and vocational, technical and career institutions. Of these, approximately 600 schools have been accredited through the association's Commission on Public Schools. The commission works with individual schools to improve the quality of education through a continuous process of evaluation and accreditation.

Principal Theodore Davis said, "To become a member of NEASC, a school must meet the commission's standards of membership which have been established for accreditation. The purpose of the 15 month self-study is to provide an opportunity for our staff to review all our educational programs to determine the degree to which our school meets those rigorous standards. The standards were

11th-graders about average on state exams

Last year's junior class at Telstar Regional High School scored about average—compared with juniors at similar schools—on the statewide tests they took last April. The test results were released late last week. Individual's test results have already been sent home to parents of students who took the exam.

Last year's 11th-graders, on average, scored extremely well in science and social studies, while scoring poorly in mathematics and extremely poorly in grammar.

The tests are part of a new statewide program to keep track of how students, and schools, are doing compared to others. Testing is done each year among 4th-graders, 8th-graders and 11th-graders. The results of the former two grade levels have already been released.

A total of 71, or 96 percent of the then-junior class at Telstar, took the test. This compares with 14,650, or 89 percent, of all 11th-graders in the state. (The fact that Telstar had a larger percentage of its 11-graders included in the exam results than did the state could have had some effect in bringing down Telstar's average scores, according to Superintendent DeWaine Craig.)

The exam averages are given below. In every instance, the statewide average is computed as 250, with the school average being calculated as so many points from the state average. Less than 50 points above or below the state average is not considered too significant by the designers of the test.

Test	State score	Telstar score	Similar schools
Reading	250	220	210-275
Writing	250	245	195-280
Grammar	250	200	210-275
Math	250	205	200-280

Social Studies	250	290	215-275
Humanities	250	245	200-265

established to ensure that the ingredients for effective education exist within the school."

Mr. O'Donnell also noted that, "While accreditation by the association does not imply perfection, it does not assure that the school has the resources, leadership and enthusiasm to support the ongoing improvement required of all schools."

In Maine, 90 high schools and 44 intermediate schools are NEASC members.

One of the major requirements for NEASC membership is the entire school be evaluated following the extensive self-study by the staff. This evaluation is conducted by a visiting committee of professional educators, sent by the commission, who review all materials prepared by the faculty in the self-study, visit classes, and talk with students, teachers and administrators during their four-day visit to the school. Telstar has been scheduled for a visit by the evaluation team in March of 1987.

The New England Association of Schools and Colleges, founded in 1885, is the oldest accrediting agency in the country and is recognized by the U.S. Department of Education as the sole agency to award accreditation to intermediate schools and high schools in New England.

Boise spokesman Gary Guimond said, "The 'impasse' charge having been pulled out of the kind of vindictive spirit position."

With the final charge against Boise dropped, strikers' spirits also dropped. "Everybody was waiting for that (charge) to be substantiated," said one striker.

With no real hope for help from NLRB and with Boise continuing to give strikers' jobs to new workers, many strikers figure they'd better go back to work. To date, Boise claims to have hired 300 new workers. The company has interviewed about 2,300 applicants and is still accepting applications.

Boise spokesman Guimond revealed that at some point in the future—and, in any case, within a year of the July implementation of the new contract—the mill will hold a vote among its workers to see which union, if any, the workers want to represent them. Some new workers have indicated they will not vote to be represented by the paperworkers, who, they claim, have been harassing them.

The United Paperworkers International Union Local 990, which still represents the workers—even the new workers—in the mill, has been given lists of names of all the new workers. Mr. Guimond told The Citizen. "UPIU is entitled to try to enroll new workers, and we have, by law, supplied the names of people who are working here."

Also this week, rumors began anew that negotiations were again a possibility. Negotiations broke off the last week of June when the union declined to extend the June 30 deadline of the old contract. Workers walked off their jobs July 1.

Talks began again last month after prodding of Boise by the governor. They lasted one week and accomplished nothing.

Federal mediator John LaPoint last night (Tuesday night) confirmed that negotiations may be in the offing. He told The Citizen: "I'm endeavoring to get the parties to a joint meeting. I'm in touch with both sides."

While no date has been rumored for the resumption of talks with the paperworkers, talks have been scheduled for next week between Boise and the International Brotherhood of Electricians, whose contract expired July 31 and who have declined, since then, to cross the paperworkers' picket lines.

These talks with the electricians will be under the direction of federal mediator John LaPoint and will focus on the company's desire to contract out the work previously done by the 60 members of the electricians local. Sources say most of the electricians have been doing contract work themselves, in Millinocket.

From the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

The board of directors of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce met Wednesday morning, Sept. 3 in the tavern at the Bethel Inn and the following issues were discussed.

The meeting pretty much focused upon the "Big E." Everything seems to be in order, so when the directors meet again they will be able to report on what happened at this long-awaited exhibition.

The sign committee has been updating area informational signs weekly, so any member who has not given their information, please do so and the committee will be glad to post it for you.

A piece of correspondence that has come in concerns a referendum on local measured service. The directors did not go into a discussion, but it will be taken up at another meeting, and you will receive an update.

Ms. Zinchuk had a marketing representative from Portland visit with her and possibly she can help the chamber with ideas or things that are not being done in the area when we have our off seasons. It is hoped to be able to invite her to the next board meeting on Oct. 14, 7:30 p.m. at the Casco Northern Bank. All are welcomed!

POLICE WARRANT ARTICLE

The organizers of the petition drive for a special town meeting to increase the police budget did not object to the selectmen's idea of having an alternate article that specified an additional $22,000 without specifying how it should be spent.

Since it was a workshop session, no decisions were made, but Chairman Jodrey said, "I'm sure we'll get it (the warrant article) to the voters in due time."

In order to be included in this year's tax commitment, voters would have to authorize the extra spending by early October, Mr. Lynch pointed out.

The selectmen are expected to set a date for the special town meeting when they meet next Monday. They may also, at that time, decide whether to place the question of the Comprehensive Plan on the same warrant. (Voters must approve the Comprehensive Plan before the Planning Board can do any work or ordinances to control growth.)

ing ordinance, or something else would be up to the board members, he said.

Selectman Pat Doon said "You can't stop development. When a town begins to change it begins to change. I'm like David (Luxton)—I don't like to see it."

Jane Hoesterman hoped the Planning Board would set aside plenty of time prior to town meeting to come up with a proposed ordinance to control growth. "I have a feeling of dis-ease on what you can accomplish (before town meeting) because you're going to be bombarded... by applications for subdivisions," she said.

Suzi Harrington suggested that the planners work with their counterparts in Newry to develop a regional plan on controlling growth. "What happens in Newry affects Bethel," she pointed out.

Chairman Gray concurred. "Maybe there will be something in the future," he said, "whether condos or whatever, that brings them together." For the time being, however, he said each town's planners could only devise plans for their own municipalities.

Carol Emery, Elaine C. Hutchins, Janet Hutchins, Jodey L. Kimball, Helen Manjourides, Monica E. Mann, Mary B. McVey, Barbara Russell, Ted Tanguay, Mary F. Taylor, Betsy P. White, Katherine L. Wight, and Malinda B. Seames.

Substitute workers were also approved in the following categories: food service workers, Violet Chretien and Helen Manjourides; bus driver, Wayne Coffin. Lead teachers in the SAD #44 elementary schools were approved as follows (with stipend): Andover Elementary School, John Emery ($850); Crescent Park School, Mary Newcomb ($500); Woodstock Elementary School, Jolene Shimamura ($850); Ethel Bisbee School, duties to be shared by Kris Atherton, Judy Coolidge, Meg Cousins, Caroline Gould, Kathy McCluskey, and Sheila Otero (stipend of $500 to be shared equally).

The following sports coaches at the middle school were approved: soccer head coach, Daniel Hannon; and soccer assistant coach, Tony Berryment. The appointment of Sharon Higgins as high school yearbook advisor was rescinded, and Linda Howe appointed to the position. [Mrs. Higgins has accepted a teaching position in SAD #43 (Mexico).] The resignation of Mrs. Joan Parker, grade 2 teacher at Woodstock Elementary School, was accepted to be effective at the close of the current school year. Mrs. Parker plans to enter retirement.

The directors granted second reading (final) approval to a revised Student Discipline Policy, "Extra-Curricular Rules and Regulations."

Prior to the meeting, the Telstar Educators Association/Board of Directors get-together and dinner was held at the Telstar cafeteria. Following dinner members of the board of directors toured facilities at the Ethel Bisbee and Crescent Park schools.

RISING: The new Woodstock School is rising rapidly. Concrete block work and steel work are being done this week.

Bethel assures DEP it will improve conditions at dump

The Town of Bethel has been ordered by the state Department of Environmental Protection to clean up sources of pollution at the sanitary landfill or face fines totalling $8,000.

Monday night, at a workshop session, the Board of Selectmen discussed a proposed consent agreement and enforcement order presented them by the DEP. The state agency noted that in periodic inspections between 1982 and 1985, inspectors found that solid waste was not being covered over at the end of each day.

The inspectors also noted that leaching from the landfill is polluting the Androscoggin River.

The consent agreement orders the town to construct two new drainage ditches and level spreaders in the area of the access road and the old dump and clean the existing ditch along Rte. 2.

It also orders the town to grade the surface of the filled trenches to a 3 percent grade and plant vegetation on top.

It also orders the town to repair erosion gullies on the slopes of the old dump using 35 percent fines soil—that is, soil that can be compacted to form a barrier against water seepage.

It also orders the town to relocate the brush burning area to the east of the access road and to the west of the existing cover material stockpile.

All of the above work is to be completed by this Oct. 15, according to the agreement.

Furthermore, by Oct. 15 of next year, the town must grade, cover and revegetate the entire top of the old dump and the top and slopes of the present stump dump. Moreover, the town must develop a plan to monitor surrounding ground-water in order to detect any pollution being caused by leaching at the landfill.

Should the town not accomplish the items by the date specified, there would be an additional fine of $5,000.

The selectmen indicated they would have no trouble signing the consent agreement, and they plan to do so at their next regular meeting, next Monday. "I don't see anything unreasonable at all," said Chairman Arlan Jodrey.

Chainsaw safety tips by the extension service

Fall is here (almost), and with it come the unmistakable sounds of the seasons: rumbling schoolbuses, rustling breezes, and buzzing chainsaws.

Chainsaws? Absolutely. Whether pruning trees and shrubs, thinning woodlands, or getting a jump on the heating season by collecting firewood, more and more people are using chainsaws, and many may not be observing all the recommended safety measures.

Last year, more than 500 Maine people were injured in chainsaw accidents, according to Bill Lilly, forestry specialist with the University of Maine's Cooperative Extension Service.

The Extension Service offers the following tips on safe chainsaw handling. By taking a little time to check your clothing, equipment, and procedures, you can help guarantee a safe woodcutting experience and greatly reduce the likelihood of accident and injury.

The first step is choosing a saw equipped with the basic safety features. Check with a reputable dealer to be sure the saw you select has a chain brake, kick-back guard, tip guard, safety chain, throttle guard, right-hand guard and chain catcher. These features protect the user from the most common injuries. Be sure to study the operator's manual that comes with the saw so you know how these and other parts work.

Wear comfortable, well-fitting (not loose) clothing, and always wear some form of eye protection—goggles or safety glasses. Protect your hearing by wearing ear protectors, and keep a hard hat on at all times. Heavy gloves and safety shoes or steel-toe boots also help minimize the possibility of injury.

When you're ready to start the saw, always check the chain's tension. Then, with the saw in a clear area, place one foot in the rear handle and one hand on the front handle to prevent the saw from moving. With your free hand, pull the starter, keeping your free foot well away from the saw blade.

Before cutting the tree, answer the following questions: Which way is the tree leaning? What will it fall on, or in? In which direction is the wind blowing? Is the top of the tree heavier on any side? If the tree can safely be felled, begin by making a notch on the side facing the direction of fall. Make a downward-

Area chamber at 'Big E'

The Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce will be sending a dozen volunteers to man a booth at the "Big E" (Eastern States Exposition) in Springfield, Mass., from Sept. 10 to Sept. 21.

The chamber members will pay for the expenses of the trip by selling weather-sticks. They will be distributing materials on the Bethel area's communities, industries and tourism opportunities. They are taking with them photos and video presentations.

Each year the 12-day event, spread over 175 acres, attracts more than 1 million people. Each New England state has its own building at the fairgrounds, and the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce booth will be in the Maine state building. The Bethel area chamber is one of only four chambers of commerce from the state participating in the fair.

angled cut first, then saw diagonally upward until you meet the first cut, but no further. If you have done this properly, the piece you remove should have an angle greater than 45 degrees and be roughly one-quarter of the thickness of the tree.

From the other side, saw the back cut, placing it a few inches higher than the notch. Always leave a hinge of one or two inches to maintain control of the tree. Next, insert a wedge or felling lever in the back cut; this prevents the saw from binding in the cut if you have misjudged the felling direction. The tree can now be taken down safely.

County offices of the Cooperative Extension Service can provide more details on forestry and woodcutting safety. In addition, this fall, the Oxford and Piscataquis County Offices will present educational programs on safe chainsaw operations.

The Cooperative Extension Service is the major educational outreach arm of the University of Maine. Its programs are open to the public without regard to age, sex, race, handicap, or national origin.

By VIVA WHITMAN

I came home from Lewiston on Saturday after going shopping with my daughter, Wynona Woolf, and Courtney in the forenoon. Michael didn't have to go to work until afternoon so he stayed home with Kariann. She doesn't care about going shopping as yet. Courtney had to have some new clothes to go to nursery school and we did find some good buys for this day and age. We went to several stores before getting what we wanted, but went home feeling that we had accomplished quite a lot.

Russell brought in some vegetables from the garden on Sunday and I took care of them. Didn't do any more than I had to as I was so tired and knew I needed to rest.

Monday, I made cookies and fixed casseroles; one for Grange that night and a smaller one for us here at home. Tried to get a little rest in the afternoon so I could be ready for the big night at Franklin Grange. Russell pulled a lot of carrots hoping that it would the others to grow better. Grace got them to take care of and said she ended up with 30 pints, some canned and some frozen. That is a lot of carrots and I hope to have some to take care of a little later on.

We went to Grange for installation of officers from Franklin Grange, West Paris Grange and Rumford Grange. A good supper was served before the meeting and the tables were full. A good selection of casseroles, baked beans, salads and many desserts were available for the taking for supper and I am sure all fared well. It was a good meeting with Brother Chester Hayes from Shelburne, N.H., doing the honors of installing the officers from all three Granges. He had his helpers with him and all did a good job. Harris Hathaway was surprised with a gift of a small piano planter, I think it was. She comes to our meetings and plays the piano for all to enjoy. She loves music and is always ready to help someone out if she can. We are very fortunate to have her come to play for us and appreciate it very much.

Tuesday night saw us on the road again, going to Pomona Grange at Pleasant Pond Grange in West Sumner. It was installation of officers for Pomona Grange. Some of the installing team had carnations on so I didn't stay in the hall to watch but went to the dining room and visited with a friend who didn't care to watch, either.

I am too allergic to perfume and flower smells to stay where carnations are around. We had enjoyed a good supper before the meeting and again, it was bountiful.

Wednesday forenoon, I had to go to North Bridgton to have a treatment from my doctor. I have too many problems and have to visit too many doctors but that seems to be my fate at this time.

Thursday and I am going to Portland later to see my allergy doctor. I have found my allergies to be worse this summer and since we have had to start the furnace, I have had more trouble so will go and see if I can get any help before it gets any worse.

Home from Portland and didn't get the help I had hoped for but will just have to wait and hope for the best.

I have been talking with one of the West Paris Grange members and she wanted me to let folks know that there will be another dance at the West Paris Grange Hall on Sept. 20 to help more on the chair-lift fund. They have had good responses to the two dances they have Nancy Dock, Lemon Grove, Calif., spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Dock. Weekend guests of the Docks were Gretchen Dock, Martha Mitchell and Vicki Gall, all of Jamaica Plain, Mass.

Richard Littlefield Jr., Memphis, Tenn., has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Littlefield. Mrs. Laurie Morse, Jessica and Scottie, are also spending some time at the Littlefield home.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stevens have been on vacation in New York state. Mr. and Mrs. Willard Gorman and girls were visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Gorman last week. Mr. and Mrs. Gorman took his brother, Jim, back to his studies at Rhode Island School of Design in Providence. Jim has spent the summer with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Walker and granddaughter, Melissa, visited Mr. and Mrs. Albert Murch and Ben Smith in Greene recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Stevens have returned home following a vacation on the Maine coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Stevens and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Stevens last week.

Beverly Onofrio, Central Falls, R.I., spent last week with her mother, Mrs. Dorothy Onofrio.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pitvin and family have moved into the Joe Baker mobile home on Route 2.

CANNING & FREEZING WORKSHOP, SEPT. 16

The SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program will offer a special seasonal workshop on Canning and Freezing of Home-Grown Produce on Tuesday, Sept. 16, in Room 106 at Telstar Regional High School. Linda Howe of Bethel will be the instructor. Mrs. Howe will demonstrate the freezing preparation process with broccoli, and the canning process with carrots, and will offer a multitude of tips for the safe and economical processing of foods. To register for the workshop, call the SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program, 824-2780. There will be a $3 registration fee.

had and hope it will continue. Richard Felt and his fellow musicians will supply the music as usual and it is bound to be good.

Didn't see much sun today and it doesn't sound as though there would be much for us to see tomorrow, either. We will just have to wait for the sun to make up its mind to shine when it is ready.

Had to write the news today as I expect to be gone tomorrow morning and didn't want to miss out getting it into the paper. Hope everybody is feeling healthy and will stay that way. Have a good week and get ready for all the fairs that are coming up. They will be looking for large crowds and probably will get them as usual. If I could walk better, I would love to be able to go and take in a day at Oxford Fair and at Fryeburg, also, but as I can't walk too much, I don't expect to see much of either. Hope someone lets me know all about them.

Have written enough of nothing so take care and have a good week.

By COLISTA MORGAN

My night was restless but with the approach of dawn there came a restful prelude to the coming day. I rose and looked from my window; a perfect day. The pond was glassy and all was quiet. A long bank of white clouds stretched undisturbed and the uppermost edge was tinged with golden yellow.

My phone rang.
"Would you like to go to the coast today?"

"Yes, it's beautiful!"
The warmth surely struck through and reached the earth. Even the breeze was lazy.

I have always liked the sea but could never give up my mountains for just the coast.

We ate outside where we could watch ridge after swelling ridge hurl itself upon the rocky shore, sending a white spray into the air.

Sea gulls careened in the wind sailing in flight, beautiful, and like a company of angels with sunny wings, soaring, gliding down invisible hills of air, alighting at times upon rocks below us. Their manner was less than angelic. They screamed and squabbled over food. Otherwise they carried on with a rather civilized life.

Along the coast trail we walked. The water sparkled and whipped its way through the rocks which looked like petrified logs from some forest of ages ago.

The trail led us to a secluded section. Long shadows stretched over confers. The light ran and climbed the trees and went again in a wink. The air was laden with the smells of the evergreens.

We returned again to the sea view. I think the sound of the sea is the most time-eating sound there is. The earth becomes young again. As I listen with eyes shut, to the sound, the sea answers many questions. It is both a builder and destroyer.

For a time we sat just to enjoy. We looked down over the rim of the sea's broad table and heard the moan of the surf. We saw a few sail boats coming in to sight far out. Ribbons of kelp, cleanly clipped, waved in the water.

So time went. Sometimes, something almost makes me hear time, as if it went by overhead on rustling wings, dropping me away into the years.

Overhead fleecy clouds drifted in the sunshine. All these impressions my mind added to it other coastal visions of out-of-the-world beauty, which remain linked with all my memories.

I enjoyed it all and was very grateful to those who thought of me.

The weekend was busy with visitors enjoying their last outing before schools open.

On Saturday afternoon the Greenwood City Yacht Club had its usual gathering at the home and beach of Vernon Inman on Hicks Pond.

David Holt of Dexter was at his parents on Monday and also called on me. My other callers were Mr. and Mrs. William Slattery, West Paris; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Curtis, Denise Adams and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Leonas Holt, Ann Holt, Doris Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Inman, Local.

Chimney cleaning starts Sept. 13 at 8 a.m. Anyone wanting the service should contact Hugh Swan or any member of the Greenwood Fire Dept. to be put on the list or to verify the you are on the list. The cost this year will be $15, 50 percent higher than previously.

The training session of the Greenwood Fire Department will be held at 6:30 p.m., Sept. 16, at the fire station.

Silver Leamon has resumed her duties as interim pastor at the Locke Mills Union Church. Two Sundays ago there was a lady there as guest speaker who works with battered women and last week Neil Wilson, Lovell, lay minister of the Oxford Union Association gave a sermon on "Comfort."

Bertha Flanders joined Thelma Gaudet of Yarmouth and family; Johnny Gaudet and friend Pam; Lisa Gaudet; Kim and Sherry Tuominen and son, Paul Eugene, and Bruce Tuominen, for a cookout in honor of Sherry's birthday. They also had cake and ice cream.

Valerie Cole left Monday to return to Plymouth, N.H., for her third year at college there.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Swan, Jr., and Todd, spent Saturday, Sunday and Monday, at their trailer on South Pond.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Brodbeck, Trenton, N.J., left for home Sunday, after spending their vacation at camp here. Lorraine Mills visited Dawn Shimamura and Shandy at their home in Norway, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Libby and girls, Bangor, have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Cole and doing some camping.

Suzi Roy left Saturday to attend Trinity College in Burlington, Vt.

Joanne Cole's mother, Blanche Bennett, has been a patient at a Brunswick hospital. She expects to go soon to her daughter's, Mrs. Arthur Ring's, at Baker Road in Freeport.

Val and Caroline Green, Massachusetts, have been here for a couple of days and put a coat of sealer on their new deck.

Eddie Chase celebrated his 80th birthday Sunday (congratulations, Eddie), and after church, Charlotte Cole, played "Happy Birthday" to him. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gould and daughter who were spending a few days at camp also were there to help him celebrate, along with his family.

Freshmen orientation was held at Telstar Aug. 27 for the 9th graders and their parents. School started Wednesday, Sept. 3, and the first "fall" frost took a lot of the gardens last week. It would be nice to ask where the summer went but since no one is sure if it ever arrived we will let the whole thing slide for this year and concentrate on getting storm windows back on (why did we ever take them off?) and do other necessary things one does to get ready for winter. Seldom is a bird heard singing in the morning, the frogs have stilled their voices and evenings are getting dark once more. Somehow it seems as if winter gets longer and summers shorter each year and the "long hazy lazy days of summer" are more words to a poem than reality. Ah, for the attitude of youth where time seems endless.

ELEANOR GORDON GUILD
The Eleanor Gordon Guild will meet Tuesday night, Sept. 16, at Betty Blake's cottage on Songo Lake. Members should bring a hot dish or salad to the 6:30 potluck supper.
Florine Bowden, a charter member of the Guild, will speak on the first years. Guests are welcome.

Andover

East Andover
By LAURA HUTCHINS

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Meisner, their son, Gary, and Howard Glover, spent the Labor Day weekend visiting Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Hall and family in Ashburnham, Mass. While there, they attended the wedding of Dale Reed to Robert Bihlmeyer on Aug. 30, held in Newington, Conn. Dale is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Reed of Enfield, Conn., and the granddaughter of Mrs. Beatrice Dresser, Andover, and Howard Glover of East Andover.

How fortunate that the weather was so beautiful over the Labor Day weekend. Everywhere we went, folks were having their last summer fling—canoeing, swimming, fishing, camping and having picnics. Bernard and I enjoyed a trip over East B Hill to Upton, Errol, and on down through the 13 Mile Woods to Berlin, where we enjoyed lunch at a newly renovated and redecorated restaurant. Then we did a bit of shopping in Gorham before returning home the same way we went. It is such a beautiful ride on a nice day. At one picnic area, a group of vehicles were parked together, where enthusiastic youths were enjoying the music of their blaring radios, as they sat on the hoods of these vehicles talking and rocking. The Androscoggin River was alive with canoes, kayaks, and fishermen. At the bridge in Errol it was the same, where youths with large inner tubes were braving the chilly water. More power to them!

Mr. and Mrs. Greg Adams, Robbie and Karen, of Sweden visited Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hutchins, Saturday night, Aug. 30. They arrived just in time to have birthday cake and ice cream with us. They brought me a nice casserole dish for use in the microwave oven. It was a perfect ending of a nice day.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Hutchins, Andover, went camping in Turner over the Labor Day weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Palmer, Andover, went camping at a spot in the 13 Mile Woods over the long weekend.

Mrs. Betty Davis replaced Mrs. Lorena Simmons at the East Andover post office Friday and Saturday while Mrs. Simmons enjoyed a bit of a vacation over the long weekend.

Mrs. Sara Head, postmaster, at Andover, recently returned from a four day postmaster's meeting in San Antonio, Tex., where she was among the 4,000 attending the 82nd Annual Convention of the National Association of Postmasters of the United States. While in San Antonio, Mrs. Head learned that she had been selected for the position of postmaster at Oxford, Maine. She will assume her duties immediately.

Our freezers are beginning to bulge with still more goodies to freeze. Tuesday we added more string beans and 2½ bushels of corn. I also canned some of the beans.

Wednesday I visited my daughter and family in Bryant Pond. They accompanied me to Gorham for some shopping and lunch. It was the first day of school for Mandy, so Calla and little Preston were a bit lonesome. When she arrived home on the bus their joyous whooping filled the air. Just doesn't seem possible that September is here already.

I hope everyone has a pleasant and safe weekend. I keep hoping this gloomy weather will move on so we can see the sun again.

North Paris

By EVELINE B. VATCHER

It is nice to see the big yellow buses on the road again and I believe the students are glad to be back in school. It gives them something to do.

Callers at Lawrence's: Mr. and Mrs. Norman Abbott, Joanne and girl friend, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vatcher, Mr. and Mrs. Cleon Pinkham, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Card, Richard Felt, Norma Reidy brought a mug with flowers, Ellen Coffin, Eva Judkins, Ruth Chandler, Evelyn Herrick, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Collette. Doris and Cleon had supper there Thursday evening. Root Lawrence went to Dr. Schmittke's, Bethel, on Monday and Friday he took Arnold Coffin to Dr. Andalkhar.

Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Ippolito, Newton, Mass., and John Manning, Dorchester, Mass., visited the Joe Vatchers Sept. 3. They had been to Rumford to visit the Barrett families.

Wasn't the Labor Day weekend beautiful? So many tourists had good days to relax and enjoy our good old state of Maine. Three whole days without rain.

Joe Vatcher took his brother-in-law, Arnold Coffin, to Dr. Richardson's Wednesday and he has gained a few pounds as he is eating some regular food along with the formula that is fed to him by a tube in his stomach. At the end of September, if he does well, the surgeon may remove the tube and Arnold will be happy.

The Aug. 30 supper at the Community Club was our best ever with a net profit of $225.51. Every seat was full and two ate on the front steps. Many strange faces and we were glad to see them. Doris Lawrence attended and it was her first time out since her operation. She brought a pillow to make the chair more comfortable. She enjoyed herself but wasn't interested in going to the dance at West Paris.

Community Club meeting at the hall Sept. 3. The secretary was absent but the treasurer's report was read and accepted and we have a nest egg of $1,003. Ellis Ellingwood put in the ceiling fan free gratis and he would even let us treat him and Avis to a free supper. He called it a donation. A money gift was presented to Irwin and Lila Ellingwood in honor of their 63rd wedding anniversary on Sept. 1.

The next supper will be Sept. 27, 5-6 p.m., with pies for dessert. Now will be a good time for apple pies. Bob and Dot Chamberlain showed talking movies after the meeting and all enjoyed coffee, punch, crackers and cheese, and cakes and we had a hot fire.

Little damage. However, the last spring frosts apparently nipped the apple blossoms and our trees are bare. The trees in other places in town were not harmed and many have fruit. This is odd because it is usually a few degrees warmer here than it is in the village.

The trees are lovely with the colors showing here and there although it seems much too early.

East Stoneham

By GLADYS KILGORE

Miss Shirley Grant of Auburn visited her brother and wife for a few days. David Curtis and friend spent the holiday at the Curtis camp on Lake Keewaydin.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Grover have been staying at their camp on Whitney Pond over the holiday.

Sunday, the guest speaker at the church will be Bill Hiss. Refreshments will be served after the services.

Several from here attended the Senior Citizens meeting at North Waterford Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Dadmun and family have returned to their home in Damariscotta after visiting at their home here for a few days.

Mrs. Grace Nelson and Mrs. Edith Holt went to Fryeburg Monday.

Mrs. Sarah Grover was host to the Past Chiefs Club Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Brown will visit his aunt in Buffalo, her sister in Beltsville, Md., and later their daughter and family in Downers Grove, Ill.

Margaret Douglass of Westbrook, sister Nellie Osborne and her son, and daughter of Maryland, visited Sarah Grover Friday, Sept. 6.

Juanita Past Chiefs Club met for their September noon lunch at the home of Sarah Grover Tuesday, Sept. 2.

Ten members were present. Elizabeth Stearns, first vice president, presided in the absence of Minerva Dudley, president, who is in a Fryeburg nursing home after a long stay at Bridgton hospital.

Tentative plans for assisting with the Pythian Sister projects were discussed and the visitation to members unable to attend meetings were proposed.

The October meeting will be held at the home of Inez Barker.

Estelle Varney received a birthday cake and gift from Arlene Merrill; the door prize went to Eloise Vail; the mystery package to Mertice Barker; and the hostess prize to Minerva Dudley.

CARD OF THANKS

We want to thank our family, friends and neighbors for the many prayers, phone calls, visits, cards, and flowers. Especially Judy for her daily visits and taking care of my needs at the hospital. Lil for her support and just being there. Mildred, Ralston, Norma, David, Alice, Laurie, Bob, and Irene, for the many errands and taking care of things at home.

Pat and Gladys and Irene for taking time to listen and give encouragement when things seemed too much to bear. God did answer our prayers.

To the doctors and nurses at M.M.C. especially Dr. Hayes.

To all our friends for offering their time to help in any way. Thanks again. We can't tell you how much it is appreciated.

God bless each and everyone.
Laurence, Eve Kimball

The Ladies Circle met Tuesday evening, Sept. 2, at the home of Freda Robertson. Devotions were read by the hostess. Notes on the last meeting were read by Sylvia Wight in the absence of the secretary, Sylvia Harrington. The financial report was read by the church secretary, Olive Anderson. Sylvia Wight reported the lawn sale held recently to sell goods remaining after the last sale was a success. It was to benefit the church. A food sale will also be held at the Bethel IGA Store at 9 a.m. on Sept. 19. A white elephant sale was held, also a quiz on Bible characters, which was conducted by the hostess. It was voted to make more gifts for people in nursing homes. Refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held on Oct. 6 at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Louise Tetley. A "show and tell" program is planned.

Louise Tetley, Beatrice Lowell, Thelma Lowery, Olive Anderson, June Swan, Gilbert Seeley, Sylvia Wight, Nancy Wight, Bessie Etti, Eleanor Davis and Betsy Clark were in Rumford bowling Sept. 2. Julia Goodwin was a guest. Thelma Lowery was high scorer for three strings and Betsy Clark was high for single. After bowling the ladies had lunch and went shopping.

The annual homecoming held at the church on Aug. 24 was well attended.

The D.O.T. has started reconstruction of a section of Route 26 between the Roy Bennett homestead and the residence of Willard Wight. This will connect sections of highway recently reconstructed to eliminate dangerous turns and to rebuild the Wight Brook bridge.

Guests of Amy and Roger Hanscom during the weekend were Karen Larkin and friend, Pam, Buxton, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Parslow, Amy and Brad, Dighton.

John and Mina Trice, Maryland, visited their daughter, Veronica Smith, Sept. 3-5. On Sept. 4 they went up Mt. Washington.

West Bethel

By HARRIETT STOWELL

Sunday dinner guests of the Cleveland Lovejoys were her parents, Alanson and Fannie Cummings, and the Ray Wests. Callers in the afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Downing of West Paris.

The Lovejoys and Cummingses attended a chicken barbecue at the Ray West camper at Littlefield Beaches on Labor Day.

Jane Head left last week for the U. of M. at Farmington for her first year's studies and Jonathan Head entered his second year at the University of Southern Maine.

Mary Butler and son, Matthew, of Union were recent overnight guests of her mother, Olive Head.

Andrew and Marlene Stowell and children of Jackman, spent Labor Day weekend with his parents, George and Harriett Stowell.

Twenty-four volunteer workers showed up the Saturday of Labor Day Weekend at the Pleasant Valley Bible Church. A delicious potluck lunch was served, as well as breakfast for the "early birds."

Work is progressing well on the 66' x 30' addition and the basement level is expected to be capped over by cold weather.

Richard Farren Jr. recently completed a 28 day course at Outward Bound in Sunday River.

Mrs. Ruth Gordon of Norway spent a few days with Ann Mason recently.

Bill Mitchell of Putney, Vt., spent the past weekend with his mother-in-law, Maxine Lovejoy.

Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Stowell, Melanie and Nathan, of Shirley, Mass., spent several days with her parents, Arthur and Ruth Gilbert recently.

Richard and Kathy Farren were recent supper guests of Everett and Barbara Blake at their summer home on Round Pond, Locke Mills.

West Paris Historical Society will meet at the Society Building on Monday, Sept. 15 for a 6 p.m. pot luck supper followed by the meeting. Mary Emery and Joyce Lamb are on the supper committee and Vernon Inman is in charge of the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Cram and Mr. and Mrs. Vance Bacon were camping at Cathedral Pines in Eustis during the Labor Day weekend.

W.W. I BARRACKS AUXILIARY

The World War Barracks Auxiliary met at the American Legion Hall Sept. 3, preceded by a chicken and hot dish dinner, served by Maude Danforth, Hilda Donahue, and Frances Bennett, with others helping.

Hilda Donahue reported on a successful yard sale. Donations were accepted on a doll which has been awarded to Edna York. The doll was donated by Maude Danforth. It was reported that Belle Lavorgna had broken her arm and Rose Taylor is having the shingles.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

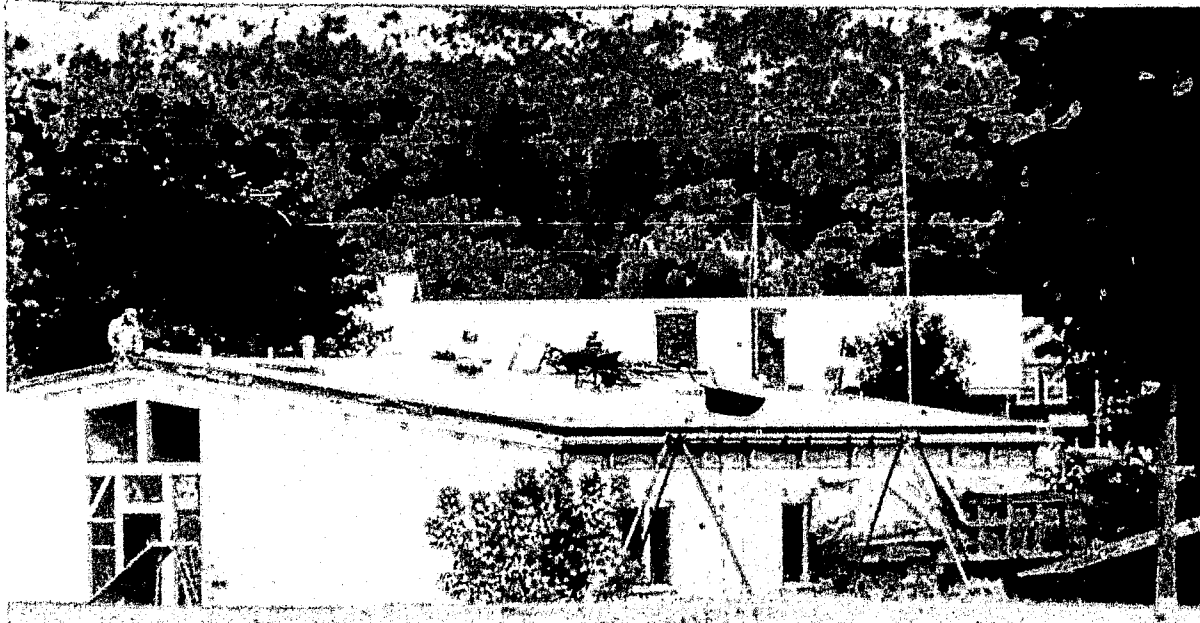

The 21st annual meeting of the Bethel Historical Society was held Thursday evening, Sept. 4, in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House. A potluck supper under the supervision of the Special Projects Committee headed by Persis Post preceded the meeting.

During the business portion of the meeting President Alden Kennett provided some of the highlights of the society since the last annual meeting. These included the showing of "From Stump to Ship" at the October monthly meeting which attracted over 500 persons; the exhibit of "A Good Stand of Buildings" in the meeting room during the fall and winter of 1985-86 and the conference held in Bethel that was inspired by Thomas Hubka's book, Big House, Little House, Back House, Barn: The Connected Buildings of New England which attracted persons from all over the Northeast; a highly successful 1985 Endowment Campaign; the addition of over 100 new members; the donation of photographs, books and artifacts from some 50 individuals; the publication of East Bethel Road; the production of a new society brochure; the publication of a second impression of the reprint of Wm. B. Chapman's History of Bethel; very successful special events (Homecoming, Heritage Day, Faye Taylor Memorial Art Show, Dr. Moses Mason Birthday Party—20th Anniversary of Society Founding, Sudbury Canada Days). President Kennett thanked everyone for making this record of achievement possible.

Persis Post delivered the report of the nominating committee: president, Alden Kennett; vice president, Marvin Ouwinga; secretary and clerk of the trustees, Charles Raymond; treasurer, Mary C. Keniston. Trustees for three years: Edward R. Hastings and Lynda Chandler. President Kennett thanked retiring trustees Persis Post and Ruth Wright for their fine service on the board.

Board of Trustees Chairman Margaret Joy Tibbetts presented honorary membership certificates to eight members who have contributed significantly to the society. This is the society's highest honor and members designated for this category by the trustees must be at least 75 years old with long records of service to the organization. Named as honorary members were Maxine Brown, Ralph S. Hall, Randall and Sarah Stevens, Edmond and Sudie Vachon, Persis Post and Edna M. York.

Trustee Chairman Tibbetts also announced to the membership that changes in the society's basic dues structure were being considered by the trustees. A recommendation will be made later in the fall to be voted on by the full membership.

Treasurer Mary C. Keniston reported that the 1985 audit report is now available and will be published in a future issue of the Courier. She also reported on finances for the current year which finds the society in sound financial condition.

Society Director Stanley Howe also thanked everyone for making this such a successful year. He also announced that the society will be publishing a book on Bethel's cemeteries later in the year and that Randall Bennett's book on Oxford County's architectural heritage will be going to press soon. Director Howe also brought to members' attention the special program scheduled for the Bethel Library this fall on New England and the Constitution where he will be giving a presentation and serve as a discussion leader. Brochures were distributed to those interested. Dr. Howe also announced that the trustees have approved a special award for volunteers which will be given at the annual meeting to the member who has made outstanding contributions of service to the society. This award has been made possible by donations from the family and friends of Marjorie McArthur Noll, who was an outstanding society volunteer. The Marjorie McArthur Noll Volunteer Service Award will be given for the first time at the annual meeting in 1987.

The traditional slide show of old photographs added to the collection during the past year plus slides of society events since the last annual meeting highlighted

So. Woodstock

By OLIVE DAVIS

Schools are in full swing as of the third of September as all the children are in their seats ready for another year of study.

Esther Davis was in Bryant Pond calling on Cecil Farnum who was home from the hospital where he had a triple by-pass to protect his heart from further damage. He was operated on two weeks ago.

Carl and Lettie Brooks and I attended the triple installation at Franklin Grange and Oxford Pomona installation at Pleasant Pond Grange at West Summer this week.

Karen Hathaway left Sunday for her school, Plymouth (N.H.) State College, where she is a sophomore.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Young invited me to go with them to the community supper at North Paris Saturday evening. They served a bountiful supper to a good crowd that night.

Don Mason is building a road to the Swan place on Curtis Hill.

the evening. Many of the slides of old photographs were taken from the collection of Society Life Member Allan Fraser, who was present and provided additional commentary to supplied by Director Howe.

Attention—Telstar freshmen and freshmen parents

The F.A.C.T. team is looking forward to seeing all Telstar freshmen attend the second Freshmen Awareness Workshop at Sunday River Skiway on Sept. 17 and 18.

During these two fun-filled days away from school, freshmen will hear guest speakers, talk and ask questions of a panel of selected speakers, view skits of fellow students, see movies, and even have recreation and snacks.

The workshop will include such topics as careers, decision making, peer pressure, study habits, school spirit, self-responsibility and attitude towards school, home and social conditions.

The Telstar staff, administration, and F.A.C.T. team members strongly recommend that all freshmen attend this unique and beneficial program.

P.F. INVITES YOU

Just a reminder that the Pilgrim Fellowship described in last week's Citizen has its first meeting of the school year Thursday, Sept. 11, from 5:30 to 7 p.m. at the West Parish Congregational Church in Bethel.

If you are attend senior high at Telstar or Gould you are invited to join Pilgrim Fellowship.

ANDOVER PUBLIC LIBRARY

New books have recently been received at the Andover Public Library as follows:

Adult fiction: The Hyde Park Murder by Elliott Roosevelt; The Trap by Tabitha King; Happy Art The Clean at Heart by Andrew Greeley; Death in the Andamans by M.M. Kaye; Death in Cyprus by M.M. Kaye; Death in Berlin by M.M. Kaye; The Great Alone by Janet Dailey.

Adult non-fiction: Rock Hudson, His Story by Rock Hudson and Sarah Davidson; Your Wedding, Making It Perfect by Yetta Fisher Gruen; Birds of North America by Chandler S. Robbins; The Maine Scenic Route by Temple S. Crittendon; I Was a Summer Boarder by Ruth Crosby; Complete Guide to Prescription and Non-Prescription Drugs by H. Winter Griffith, M.D.; Misadventures of a Fly Fisherman by Jack Hemingway.

Junior non-fiction: God is Everywhere by Barbara Burrows; Poems for Children by Louise B. Eavey; Creative Art Ideas by Mary Jackson Ellis; The First Book of Tree by M.B. Cormack; How to Know Insects by H.E. Jaques; A Grain of Wheat by Clyde Robert Bulla.

Another interesting book that has been donated to the library is "Back to Basics." It is about about the simple life. It is about old-fashioned ways of doing things, and old fashioned craftsmanship, and old-fashioned food, and old-fashioned fun. It is also about independence—the kind of down-home self-reliance that our grandparents and great grandparents took for granted, but we moderns often think has vanished forever, along with supermarket tomatoes that taste good, packaged bread that does not have additives, and holidays are not commercialized.

Americans have yearned for a return to the basics: now, suddenly, it has become a necessity. "Back to Basics" can do much to guide the way and can make for fascinating reading.

Andover Library is looking for children's puzzles and games for their collection. These puzzles and games must have all the pieces and instructions with them. If you would like to donate them please drop them off at the library during open hours or call 392-4841 to have them picked up locally.

Now that school has started the library would like to begin the Story Hour again. If anyone would be interested in volunteering an hour a week to present this program please call the librarian, Mrs. Carol Littlehale at 392-4841.

Notes from the

Woodstock Historical Society

Amateur theatricals were a favorite pastime of people years ago. Our museum has many pictures of groups of actors. The following passage portrays the experience of acting for the first time—

"A few moments later he found himself on the stage amid the garish gas and the dim scenery, acting before the innumerable faces of the crowd. It surprised him to see that the play which he had known at rehearsals for a disjointed, lifeless thing had suddenly assumed a life of its own. It seemed now to play itself... and when the curtain fell on the last scene he heard the void filled with applause..."

—James Joyce

The next society program (Sept. 13) will be on Mellic Dunham. It will be a musical evening. It is also the society's annual meeting.

Do visit the Woodstock Museum Saturday, 1-4 p.m. It is the place "where the Past is always Present."

TAP group begins meetings

The Teachers and Parents Group (TAP) of Ethel Bisbee and Crescent Park Schools will begin the year with a potluck supper on Tuesday, Sept. 16. The supper will be held at the Telstar Regional High School cafeteria, beginning at 5:30 p.m. At this meeting, plans for the coming year will be presented and new teachers will be introduced.

The TAP group exists for the purpose of promoting a learning community in which all are able to reach their fullest potential. It is a forum for communication between home and school. Through the TAP group an active program of parent and community volunteering is carried out, and projects which benefit the school community are promoted. All teachers and parents of the EBS/CPs community are encouraged to become involved. New parents are especially invited to the Sept. 16 introductory meeting.

The library hours are Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 1:30 to 4:30; Thursday evening, 6 to 8.

For the month of September the library is pleased to have on display painting by local artist Sandra Clement. Sandra has taught several adult education classes on painting in Andover, and paints mostly animals and birds. Come in and visit, you won't be disappointed.

NO MONEY DOWN!

Tri-Town Rescue

Plumbing work is being done on the new ambulance barn and should be completed soon. Region 11 vocational students will start building the structure with a week or two.

Fund raising activities are going well. That group has raised $12,000 toward the $20,000 goal. The variety show raised $500. A dance is planned for October. Calendar sales went very well. Chris Hefley is typing in the names onto the computer to be sent in for printing the first of next week. Thanks to everyone who has helped.

Training this month is the third Wednesday, Sept. 17, at 7 p.m. on leg fractures. It is worth two C.E.U. credits for recertification. Shirley Koskela purchased a dozen half-ring Thomas splints at the surplus store in case of a mass casualty. These will be used in addition to the regular Hare traction equipment.

A two credit case review is offered Sept. 24 at Stephens Memorial Hospital at 7 p.m. on mechanisms of injury. The course is limited to 30 so see Mary Emery for registration information.

Safety Tip of the Week

School has started. Children are waiting for the school bus.

Please remember to stop for a bus with flashing red lights in either direction. Children have to cross in front of the bus. Also watch children waiting in the morning for a bus. They can get excited and not pay attention to traffic. An accident could easily happen, especially in the lingering darkness of these autumn mornings.

YOUTH FELLOWSHIP KICK-OFF SEPT. 17

The Youth Fellowship of the West Parish Congregational Church will kick-off its year of activities with a hike to Step Falls, in Newry, on Wednesday, Sept. 17. All 8th-8th graders are invited to meet at the church that day at 5 o'clock, with a bag lunch. They will be returning home between 7 and 7:30 that evening. Thereafter, meetings will be held each Wednesday from 5:30 to 7. All middle school students are invited.

Joshua Lipton and Wendy Clough

CLOUGH - LIPTON

Wendy Clough and Joshua Lipton were married on Aug. 16 in the garden of the bride's parent's home. Alvin Barth performed the ceremony. Karin Clough, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor.

Wendy Clough, who will retain her maiden name, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Clough of Bethel. She graduated from Middlebury College in June as did her husband. She is a painter and works for the Children's Village in Cambridge, Mass. Her father is headmaster of Coud Academy.

Mr. Lipton, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Lipton of South Orange, N.J., works for APT, a private consulting firm in natural resources in Cambridge, Mass.

UNITED METHODIST WOMEN

The United Methodist Women met Wednesday, Sept. 3, for a potluck dinner at the church dining room. Pauline Wieden and Sarah Stevens were hostesses. There were 18 members present. Following dinner Rev. Lisa Vanderheide spoke to the group telling about herself that we might get better acquainted.

Lyndell Carter reported on her correspondence with missionary family Rev. and Mrs. Nelson Freed who are located in Maine, Saroa in Niger, Africa for three years.

The business meeting included discussion of monthly parish supper also food sales. There will be a meeting of UMW Cooperative Parish, Sept. 9, at 1:30 at the Bethel Methodist Church to plan activities for the coming year.

The Friday Gift Shop report was given by Betty Blake and she said it was one of the most successful summers.

The October meeting of the group will be held on Friday, the 3rd, with hostesses Virginia Keniston and Sylvia Luxton. A musical program is planned.

COURSE ON HOMEBUYING BEING OFFERED

The SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program has been selected to offer a pilot course developed by the Maine State Housing Authority, entitled "How Much Do You Know About Buying a Home?" The purpose of the course is to educate the consumer on the homebuying process, using the expertise of local professionals in the field. Donna Baker of the Housing Authority will serve as the overall coordinator of the Bethel course which will feature programs on "How a Broker Can Help" with Robert Crane, "What an Appraiser Will Tell You" with an appraiser from the Housing Authority; "What a Home Inspection Will Tell You"; "Finding the Best Financing" with Roger Conant of the Casco Northern Bank; and the "Legal Aspects of Homebuying" with Gordon Gillies.

The course will be offered at Telstar Regional High School on Tuesday evenings (starting Sept. 23) from 7 to 9, with a registration fee of $7.50. To register for the course call the SAD #44 Adult and Community Education office, 824-2780, or register by mail to Route #1, Box 1220, Bethel, Maine 04217.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to thank the Tri-Town Rescue Unit, the doctors and nurses at S.M.H. and M.M.C. for the excellent care during my stay there.

Also many thanks to all my relatives and friends for all the prayers, gifts, notes, phone calls, and cards while in the hospital and since my return home. It is all deeply appreciated.

God bless you all.

Bethel Library to offer discussion series on N.E. & the Constitution

The Bethel Library will be the first in the State of Maine to offer a discussion series on New England and the Constitution in anticipation of the bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution in 1987. Sponsored by the Library Association and the New England Foundation for the Humanities and funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities, the series will begin in Bethel on Wednesday, Sept. 24, beginning at 7:30 p.m. and continue every two weeks until Dec. 3.

New England and the Constitution offers the public a multi-faceted program which explores social life and political thought in the early republic and views the ratification of the constitution from a regional perspective. Was New England in the Revolutionary Era a place of order and unity or was it a center of political conflict and social unrest? What was life for New Englanders in the critical years that shaped the nation? What were the key issues at the heart of the Constitutional debate? These are some of the questions the program will examine.

Each session of the six part series will include a presentation by historian Stanley R. Howe, Director of the Bethel Historical Society, who will also lead the discussion. Dr. Howe has been involved in New England and regional history for many years and has written and lectured extensively on New England subjects.

The program features as well a touring theater performance and a touring concert. The play, The Other Boston Tea Party, focuses on the political and moral issues of the time. It is scheduled for nearby performances in March and April 1987. The touring concert performance of political and religious songs of revolutionary New England will occur in the winter and spring of 1987.

New England and the Constitution will also occur at 60 other libraries throughout the New England region from fall 1986 through the autumn of 1987 in observance of the Constitution's 200 years.

The series is free and open to anyone interested. Books and other materials for the discussion will be provided. For further information, please call the Bethel Library, Broad Street, Bethel, 824-2520.

The Home Front

By Bob Crane

• Lower interest rates are only one reason for a boom in housing resales. Another, say demographers, is the demand caused by baby boomers now at the peak of their family formation years.

• The right way to sand plank or strip flooring is WITH the grain, unless the floor is rough and uneven, or some boards are warped. Then the first sanding will be at a 45 degree angle. Parquet or block flooring is always done at an angle.

• Attic space around the windows is usually hard to use. Smart idea: built-in bookshelves to make the most of every inch.

• Is a damp basement caused by seepage or condensation? Tape a piece of foil to the wall, sealing edges tightly with duct tape, and leave two days. If moisture accumulates on top, it's condensation. If the back side is wet, it's seepage.

• Home buyers and sellers are watching the administration's budget. It calls for a more than doubling of cash needed on closing a VA or FHA mortgage, plus restrictions on its use.

'Jaws-of-life' fund reportedly growing

The Bethel Fire Department and the Bethel Hill Fire Protection Association have made further progress toward their goal of raising $11,000 to purchase a "Jaws-of-Life" apparatus to service Bethel and surrounding areas.

Donations have been received from the following individuals, businesses, and organizations: Ernest Angevine, Herb Kittredge, Tom and Linda Gibbs, George Gibson, Guy and Madeleine Gibbs, SMOGCOOP, in memory of Harold Conner, Ralph Hall, Lawrence and Barbara Young, Dana and Barbara Douglas, Bethel Sunday, Tuesday and Friday AA Group, and the Woodstock Fire Department.

A counter jar at Edelweiss has collected $140.74 since the start of the drive. A similar jar at Prim's Pharmacy has totalled $55.76.

The total in the "Jaws-of-Life" Fund now stands at $2,657.27, an amount just shy of 25 percent of the $11,000 goal.

At the Bethel Fire Department monthly business meeting on Sept. 4, Chief Bob Davis introduced guest Shirley Powell, of the Bethel Area Health Center and northern Oxford Service Council. Mrs. Powell shared her experience and knowledge from the Health Center's recent, very successful fund-raising drive. Fund-raising committee chairperson Linda Saunders, led a discussion of her committee's progress. One of the proposed projects is a dance at the Bethel Inn's Conference Center in early November. Other projects under discussion include a church supper, a pancake breakfast for the Bethel Rotary Club, and the mechanics of a raffle of Julie Day's Teddy Bear.

Most of the Bethel Fire Department calendars have been distributed, but there are a few extra ones available. If you did not order a calendar this year, but would like to purchase one, see any Bethel firefighter.

Bethel Emergency Ambulance and Rescue Service

An advanced first aid class will start on Tuesday night, Sept. 16, at 6:30, at the Ambulance Garage on Cross Street. Cost is $20. One must be at least 15 years old to take this course. For further information contact Laura Plawlock, 824-2584; Wilbur Crowell, 824-3287; or Arlene Greenleaf, 824-2744. Six are needed for a class.

An E.M.T. course is scheduled for Bethel to start on Monday night, Sept. 22, at 6:30 at the Ambulance Building on Cross Street. The cost is $135 to $150. Contact Arlene Greenleaf, 824-2744, or Joanne Lee, Tri-County E.M.S. Coordinator, 300 Main St., Lewiston, Maine 04240, telephone 784-0111. An application must be sent in for this course.

The regular meeting of the B.E.A.R.S. will be held on Sunday night Sept. 21 at 6:30.

Safety Tip

It is coming fall soon and people will be using their stoves more. Please be sure that your chimney is clean and clear and that it is safe. Be sure that the floor underneath is protected from the stove. Make sure that you do not have paper and other things too near the stove. Make sure that you tend the stove properly and if it needs a screen that one is used.

U.S. ski team to train at Sunday River

The Sunday River Ski Resort has been chosen as an "Official Training Center of the United States Ski Team" for the 1986-87 season, Wende Gray, Sunday River's marketing manager announced recently.

Sunday River is one of only six ski resorts nationwide to be chosen as National Training Centers. Other resorts include Park City, Utah; Copper Mt. and Keystone, Colo.; Mt. Bachelor, Ore.; and Attitash, N.H.

The Newry resort was chosen to host America's best skiing athletes because of its reliable early season snow conditions, excellent slalom and giant slalom terrain on the Monday Mourning trail, and the support of the resort community and Maine business. Homeowners of the Sunrise Condominiums have donated lodging while the Bethel area business community has donated their services to support the team's residence at the resort.

"The Brat with the Brat" does odd jobs, like:

JACKSON-SILVER POST & UNIT HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC

The Jackson-Silver Post 66 and Auxiliary held their annual family picnic and meeting Thursday, Sept. 4, with a great attendance of young and old, at the Legion hall on the Gore Road, Locke Mills.

At the meeting that followed, Commander Earl Colby and President Leah Deegan presided.

Secretary Kathy Bartlett reported on the music award and blue ribbon won at State Convention in June, and also recognition for the legislation work done for State Chairman Phyllis Irwin. It was for the junior program, reported by Mary Lyons.

The Post received State 1st Award for its scrapbook. It's competing at the National Convention. The plaque is on the wall at the Legion hall, thanks to Herb Lyon.

The Post Unit donated $650 for the Telstar Band booster club. The school has a goal of $4,000 to put the band back in good standing. Director Harry Davis heads the booster club committee.

Plans were discussed for the Oct. 5 junior music program, with rehearsal Sept. 28, at 4 p.m.

The membership supper will be Oct. 16.

The weekly game parties were reported going well, with President Leah Deegan in charge.

Membership is at 40 to date.

Beverly Melville has been ill. A card will be sent to her.

The hall has a new lowered ceiling that helps the acoustics.

Adjutant Charlie Mason and 1st Vice Commander Leroy Patten called on WWI veteran Charles Clifford to present him with his special certificate and pen from State Convention, which was honoring all WWI veterans this year.

The next meeting will be Sept. 18, at 6:30 p.m.

EDWARD ALBERT CAPILLON

Edward Albert Capillon, died Monday, Sept. 8, 1986, at Madonna Manor, in North Attleboro, Mass., following a brief illness.

He was born in New York City, Feb. 15, 1900, the son of Albert and Blanche (Dalleine) Capillon. He attended New York City schools and graduated from Columbia University in 1921 and the Columbia School of Mines in 1923.

He married Nellie A. Harrington, the daughter of the late M.H. Harrington of Greenwood, on July 27, 1933 in New York City. Mr. Capillon had lived in North Attleboro for 60 years and was employed as a metallurgist by the D.E. Makepeace Co. until his retirement in 1967. He was a member of the Attleboro Chess Club, the Attleboro Credit Union, the American Legion post of Attleboro and St. John's Catholic Church. He was a veteran of World War I, serving with the Student Army Training Corps while at Columbia University.

He is survived by his wife, of Attleboro; two daughters, Mrs. Helene Peluso, of New York City, and Mrs. Yvette Best, of New Orleans; and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 10 a.m. from the Greenleaf Funeral Home, Vernon Street, Bethel, with interment in the Irish Neighborhood Cemetery, Greenwood. Visiting hours at the funeral home Wednesday evening, 7-9 p.m.

BERTRAND W. RUGG JR.

Bertrand W. (Sonny) Rugg Jr. of East Stoneham died early Sunday morning, Sept. 7, 1986, at the Northern Cumberland Memorial Hospital in Bridgton.

He was born in North Waterford, Sept. 5, 1929, the son of Bertrand and Abbie Walbridge Rugg. He married Thelma Harding on Sept. 20, 1947. Mr. Rugg had been employed as a woodman, a carpenter, for several years by the State of Maine and most recently was employed by Wilner Wood Products.

Survivors include his wife of East Stoneham; a son, Bert of North Waterford; a daughter, Weheta Hill of Norway; three brothers, Donald and Erlon, both of East Stoneham, and Edwin of Oxford; four sisters, Mrs. Robert (Althea) Pike, and Mrs. Fred (Betty) Coffin, both of South Waterford, Mrs. Jay (Ruth) Pitman of North Fryeburg and Rita Charles of North Waterford; and three grandchildren.

Funeral services are being held at two o'clock this Wednesday afternoon at the Raymond Funeral Home, 21 Main Street, South Paris. Interment will be at the Hillside Cemetery, East Stoneham.

In 1981, the average disabled woman was not employed, nor was she looking for work, and her total 1980 income was less than $3,500. The average age for a work-disabled woman was 51; for a non-disabled woman it was 33, according to a fact sheet on working women published by the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.

COUNTY REPUBLICANS GAIN

Newly enrolled voters on Oxford County rolls have been mostly registering as Republicans, according to the Republican State Committee.

Of the 1,114 newly enrolled voters since 1984, 631 registered as Republicans, while only nine registered as Democrats, according to a state committee report. However, 474 registered as independents.

The county tally reflects a statewide trend, the state committee report states. Citing statistics from the Maine Secretary of State's office, the report notes that over the past two years, Republicans gained 15,725 members while Democrats gained only 10,757. Statewide, the Republicans hold a 60-40 edge among voters who have stated a party preference.

"This is the first time in the past 32 years that Republicans have registered a greater number of voters than the Democrats in a two-year period," said party chairman Loyall Sewall.

Rotary Club notes

The Bethel Rotary Club held its regular Tuesday luncheon meeting at the Sudbury Inn on Sept. 9.

Visiting Rotarians and guests joining with the group this week on Tuesday were Bill Lowther, Boonton, N.J.; Dave Everett and Larry Palmer, Oxford Hills.

The program chairman was Rodney Lynch. His guest speaker was Sawin Millett, former commissioner of education for the State of Maine. Mr. Millett discussed the Education Reform Act. His identification of the content of the act and his response to questions asked by Rotarians, provided a clear explanation of the goals of education, applicable to both teachers and students. It was very well presented and received program.

As a reminder, the Oxford Hills annual Rotary Cookout will be held on Sunday Sept. 14 at Glenn Huntley's home in Hebron. A big turn-out is hoped for.

President Dave announced that the Rotary Pancake Breakfast is scheduled for Sunday, Nov. 23 at the Gould Academy dining room. More information will be forthcoming.

For the information of Rotarians, the house committee is in the process of evaluating and selecting a place to cater the breakfast Rotary Club meeting.

Woodstock truck drivers

against closing street

Truck drivers in the town of Woodstock complained to selectmen at a public hearing Tuesday night that the board's decision to close Church Street to through traffic was a bad idea.

Thirty-seven truck drivers signed a petition to re-open the road after selectmen had it posted to through trucks in June. Nine truckers showed up at Tuesday night's hearing.

Selectman George Hooper said Church Street was not designed to carry heavy trucks. Selectman Clifford York said the matter should be left to annual town meeting to decide, especially if money will be needed to improve Church St.

STEAMING HOT LOBSTERS ARE READY for COMSAT picnickers under Don Kennedy's expert supervision. Don, his wife Judy, and Ken Dixon were in charge of the COMSAT picnic, held at Littlefield Beaches Campground, Locke Mills, last Saturday. About 78 people showed up—current and retired COMSAT and AT&T employees and their families. How many more COMSAT picnics there will be is still a question. The latest word the employees have is that the Andover facility will close at the end of 1987.

Statewide crime down

The state experienced a slight drop in crime from January to June 1986, according to the State Uniform Crime Report released last week.

Crimes reported to law enforcement agencies in the state decreased by 0.8 percent during the first six months of the year, compared to the same period in 1985, the report states.

There were 19,768 reported offenses, compared to 19,932 a year earlier. The crimes tabulated are murder, rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny-theft, motor vehicle theft, and arson.

Breaking down the total, violent crimes (murder, rape, robbery and aggravated assault) decreased 9.5 percent, while property crimes (burglary, larceny-theft, motor vehicle theft and arson) decreased 0.5 percent.

While the aggregate numbers were down, some statistics were up. Murders increased from six in the 1985 period to 10 in the first six months of this year. And armed robberies increased from 133 last year to 178 this year.

Col. Allan Weeks, of the Maine State Police, said, "Gas service stations and convenience stores have increasingly been the target of robberies, with an increase in the use of firearms in the commission of the crimes."

Also on the increase were purse-snatching and theft from motor vehicles. Motor vehicle theft was also up slightly.

The clearance rate—that is, arrest and prosecution—for all reported serious crimes was 27.4 percent—about the same as last year.

There were 15,550 adults and 4,893 juveniles arrested during the first six months of the year—a slight increase in adult arrests and a slight decrease in juvenile arrests.

Despite the lower numbers of juveniles arrested, they were generally arrested for more serious crimes.

Coast Guard Lt. J.G. Richard W. Ross, son of Reginald and Roberta M. Ross of Park Street, West Paris, has been promoted to his present rank while serving about the Coast Guard Cutter Northwind, homeported in Wilmington, N.C. The lieutenant, a 1974 graduate of Oxford Hills High School in South Paris, also is a 1984 graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology with a bachelor of science degree. He joined the Coast Guard in 1979.

Residents develop vision for the future of the Bethel area

Three dozen area residents, looking ahead to what the Bethel area should look like in the 1990s, stressed the need to preserve—and improve—the natural environment.

Participating in a "futuring" workshop conducted last month by NTL instructors Ron Lippitt and Paula Luglianni, the area residents envisioned a crystal-clear Androscoggin River by the 1990s, with community access to the river.

They also envisioned the return of salmon and eagles, the demise of the town dump, and the continued presence of pastures, fields and forests.

The participants also envisioned more educational offerings for both young people and adults, and higher educational attainment for the student population, with the dropout rate cut in half.

They envisioned increased town services, including a community center for teens, improved streets and sidewalks, expanded recreational facilities, including a park, tennis court and pool, an updown parking lot, and a 10-week summer recreation program.

The participants wanted better public transportation and a Main Street closed to motor vehicle traffic.

A more diversified economy was envisioned, with an industrial park, more technical jobs, more small shops and craft stores, continued growth of the skiing and tourism industries, and a whole industry centered around personal development—as taught by such groups as NTL and Outward Bound.

With the improved economic climate, property taxes would go down, the participants felt.

With better jobs, better education, better and more affordable housing, more shops, lower taxes and an improved natural environment, the futurists could imagine the Bethel area alive with lots of happy people, living secure lives. They stressed the need to see lots of people out on the streets, with smiling faces, and the need to see old friends still in town.

Part of the key to accomplishing what they envisioned was zoning, many of them felt, plus cooperation among boards of the various area towns.

Workshop participant and director of SAD #44 Adult Education Cathy Newell last week released the record of the proceedings of the workshop.

Among the other tasks the participants accomplished was a listing of significant aspects of the area's development, and a listing of the best and worst aspects of that development.

Among the so-called "proudest-proudest" the group listed the skill and reliability of local workers, the beauty of the countryside, the sense of community spirit, the adult education program, the small-town personal relationships and the opportunity to know a lot of different people.

Among the "sorriest sorries" the participants listed a lack of land-use controls, a lack of educational goals, a lack of community direction, a lack of diversity in jobs, a reliance on the property tax

Jeri Brooks

JERI BROOKS INSTALLED AS
AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY
NATIONAL VICE-PRESIDENT

Jeri Brooks, of Bethel, was installed as eastern division National Vice President of the American Legion Auxiliary at the organization's national convention in Cincinnati Sept. 4. She is eligible for the auxiliary through the service of both her parents, Dana and Carolyn Brooks.

Miss Brooks joined the auxiliary as a junior member and is now a life member of Mundt-Allen Unit #81 in Bethel. Active in her unit, she has held all major chairmanships, as well as the office of secretary three times, historian and unit president. In 1977-78 Miss Brooks was elected district president.

At the state level she has chaired several committees, including Americanism, Community Service, Membership, National Security and Past Presidents Parley. Her terms as state chairman, historian and vice president were followed by her term as state president, in 1983.

The national organization, too, has benefited from Miss Brooks' dedication. She has served as national executive committee member and as a member of the Junior activities committee. Honing her other auxiliary skills, she was a member of the American Legion Press Association and is a qualified leadership training instructor. Since 1981 Miss Brooks has been a member of the National Legislative Council of the American Legion Auxiliary.

for local funding, and the low expectations of many local youth.

Half of the participants volunteered to form a committee to follow up on the visions of the group.
